

Abstracts of the Disclosure

In a multi-processor system, each processor transmits a system time synchronous signal to another 5 processor using hardware, and measures the propagation delay time of the signal. Then, the timer value of each processor is adjusted with the measured propagation delay time.